News

December 2013 Edition

Dear Wisconsin Children's Safety Advocates:

In November 2013, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission issued a total of 9 recalls relating to products affecting children. Attached is a summary of the releases identifying the product, the problem, and what should be done with the recalled product.

We have found that not all of the recalls are picked up by the news media as they occur. This monthly summary will give you the opportunity to review all of the children's product safety recalls for the past month. If you are interested in a complete text of the recall, double click on the hyperlink at the end of the recall description. This will direct you to the recall notice located on the CPSC website.

If you have other product safety questions, you may call our toll free number at (800) 422-7128. The following is a listing of the 9 "KIDS" recalls by title and identification number (when available):

- American Boy and Girl Recalls Infant Sandals Due to Choking Hazard (14-031)
- Little Willy's Recalls Hooded Sweatshirts Due to Strangulation Hazard (14-032)

KEEP YOUR KIDS SAFE

Release Number: (#14-031) American Boy and Girl (ABG), of Elizabeth, N.J., is announcing the voluntary recall of about 1,300 girl's "Susan" Sandals. This recall involves infant girl sandals sold under the Falls Creek Baby brand. The "Susan" style was sold in infant sizes 3 to 6 months, 6 to 9 months and 9 to 12 months. The white leather sandals have three pink, purple and yellow flowers on the top and a top strap that attaches to a hook and loop fastener on each side of the shoe. "Falls Creek Baby" and the size are printed on the inside of the shoe.

Problem: The top strap can be pulled loose from the shoe, posing a choking hazard to the child.

What to do: Consumers should immediately take the recalled sandals away from children and contact American Boy and Girl for a refund or replacement. You can contact American Boy and Girl toll-free at (800) 689-9237 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. ET Monday through Friday, or online at www.abgnyc.com, and click on "Recall Information" for more information.

Release Number: (#14-032) Little Willy's of, New York, N.Y., has announced the voluntary recall of about 200 Little Willy's Hooded Sweatshirts. This recall involves Little Willy's brand children's hooded sweatshirts sold in sizes XS (2 years), S (3 years), M (4-5 years), L (6-7 years), XL (8-9 years) and XXL (10 years). The cotton fleece sweatshirts were sold in two color patterns: dark grey with light grey stripes and a red hood, and purple with navy blue stripes and a green hood. The sweatshirt has an elbow patch on the right arm and the Little Willy logo on the front.

Problem: The hoodies have drawstrings through the hood or neck which pose a strangulation hazard to young children. In February 1996, CPSC issued guidelines about drawstrings in children's upper outerwear. In 1997, those guidelines were incorporated into a voluntary standard. Then, in July 2011, based on the guidelines and voluntary standard, CPSC issued a federal regulation.

What to do: Consumers should immediately take the garments away from children. Consumers can remove the drawstrings to eliminate the hazard or return the garments to Little Willy's to have the drawstring removed. You can contact Little Willy's collect at (212) 680-0107 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. ET Tuesday through Saturday, or online at www.littlewillys.com. In addition, consumers can email mr.wilcox@lordwillys.com for more information.

Release Number: (#14-028) Angelcare of Canada announces the voluntary recalls about 600,000 Angelcare Movement and Sound Monitors with Sensor Pads. The cord attached to the baby monitor's sensor pad is placed under the crib mattress, which poses a strangulation risk if the child pulls the cord into the crib and it becomes wrapped around the neck. Angelcare and CPSC have received reports of two infant cord strangulation deaths. In November 2011, a 13-month-old female died in San Diego, California, and, in August 2004, an 8-month-old female died in Salem, Oregon. In both fatalities, the cord from the sensor pads was pulled into the crib by the infant. In addition, there have been two reports of infants who became entangled in cords of Angelcare baby monitor models, which did not result in fatalities.

Problem: The cord attached to the baby monitor's sensor pad is placed under the crib mattress, which poses a strangulation risk if the child pulls the cord into the crib and it becomes wrapped around the neck.

What to do: Consumers should immediately make sure cords are placed out of reach of the child and contact Angelcare toll-free at (855)355-2643 between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. ET Monday through Friday or visit the firm's website at www.angelcarebaby.com to order the free repair kit.

Release Number: (#14-026) The Bailey Boys, Inc., located in Saint Simons Island, Ga., announces the voluntary recall of about 2,000 children's 100% cotton loungewear pants, sold in sizes toddler 2 through boys' 12. All of the pajama pants have an elastic waistband with a white drawstring and a garment label that states "J.Bailey clothing for young men." The pajama pants were sold in multiple prints including Chad-Ball red baseball print, Chad-Base two colored red baseball print, Chad-Boat light blue boat print, Chad-Crab grey crab print, Chad-Golf light gray print, Chad-Santa green Santa Clause print, Chad-Sea grey blue seahorse print, Chad-Turtle dark blue turtle print and Chad-Turtle light blue turtle print. The website www.jbaileyclothing.com is printed on a hangtag attached to the garment. 15,000 wearable blankets. They come in two sizes: small (10-18 pounds) and medium (16-24 pounds) and come in three colors: kiwi Whoo, pink Hip, and blue Splash.

Problem: The pajama pants fail to meet federal flammability standards for children's sleepwear, posing a risk of burn injuries to children.

What to do: Consumers should immediately take the recalled pajama pants away from children, and return them to The Bailey Boys, Inc. for a full refund. You can contact The Bailey Boys, Inc. toll-free at (855) 809-4400 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. ET Monday through Friday or online at www.baileyboys.com and click on the Product Recall link on the bottom of the page for more information.

Release Number: (#14-016) Wood Castle Furniture, of Albany, OR., is announcing the voluntary recall of about 1,000 Riley Duo model bunk beds with model number C 5702, E 5702 or M 5702. The Duo has a twin size mattress frame on top and a full size mattress frame on the bottom. The solid wood bunk bed was sold in cherry, eastern maple or pacific coast maple. A warning label on the end rail of the top bunk has model number “5702” and “Duo Bunk”

Problem: The openings between the guardrails on the bunk bed can exceed 3 ½ inches in width, which is too wide and does not meet safety standards. This presents an entrapment hazard where a child could be seriously injured or become asphyxiated.

What to do: Consumers should immediately contact Wood Castle Furniture for a free repair. Either the consumer or a company representative can determine if the guardrails spacing is too wide. Consumers with young children should discontinue use of the bunk bed until the hazard has been remedied. You can contact Wood Castle Furniture collect at (571) 754-9304 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. PT Monday through Friday or online at www.woodcastle.com and click on Product Recall for more information.

Release Number: (#14-015) Vans Inc., of Cypress, CA., is announcing the voluntary recall of about 2,400 Vans' AV Edict hooded jackets for boys. They were sold in boy's sizes S, M, L and XL and made from black cotton or black canvas with a drawstring through the hood. “Vans®” is printed on a tab above the jacket's left front pocket. An intertwined “AV” logo is embroidered in black beneath the lower right pocket and also appears on the jacket's snaps. “Vans®,” “OFF THE WALL®” and an intertwined “AV” logo is sewn on a label inside neck of the jacket.

Problem: The jackets have drawstrings in the hood around the neck area that pose a strangulation hazard to young children. In February 1996, CPSC issued guidelines about drawstrings in children's upper outerwear. In 1997, those guidelines were incorporated into a voluntary standard. Then, in July 2011, based on the guidelines and voluntary standard, CPSC issued a federal regulation. CPSC's actions demonstrate a commitment to help prevent children from strangling or getting entangled on neck and waist drawstrings in upper outerwear, such as jackets and sweatshirts.

What to do: Consumers should take the recalled jackets away from children and return them to the place of purchase for a full refund or for a repair. You can contact Vans Inc. toll-free at (800) 817-0618 anytime or online at www.vans.com and click on Recall Info for more information.
